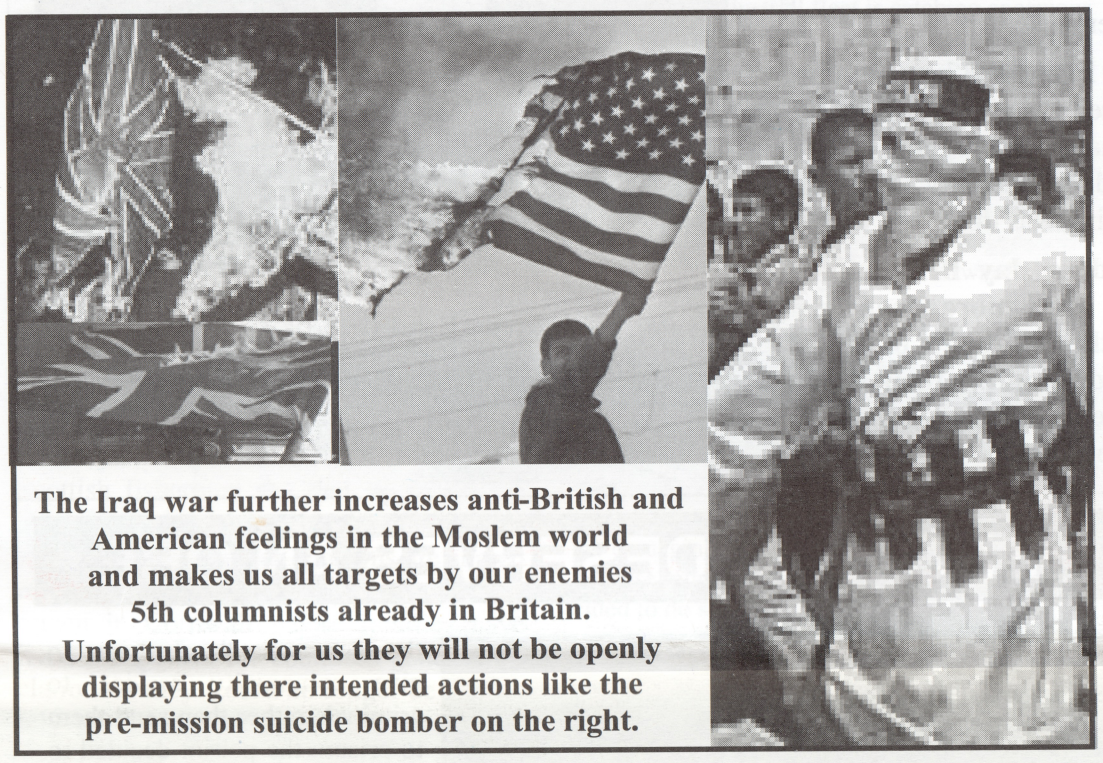
UK TERROR ALERT



The Iraq war further increases anti-British and American feelings in the Moslem world and makes us all targets by our enemies 5th columnists already in Britain. Unfortunately for us they will not be openly displaying there intended actions like the pre-mission suicide bomber on the right.

Mohamed Sekkoum, an Algerian, claims that more than 200 terrorists from his country have entered Britain. Mr Sekkoum told a News of World reporter that "These killers have blood on their hands, yet are given a haven here. It makes no sense. Many abuse the system by preaching war and inciting terror. It is very dangerous."

Lurking on our streets there are a whole host of foreign psychopaths, paedophiles, rapists, terrorists and murderers, who now pose a constant threat to every one of us.

What response do we get from the government when we cry out for protection from these strangers in our land? We are told that nothing can be done because "we have a commitment to them". Clearly parliament has a far greater commitment to them, than it does to us.

The man arrested for the stabbing of DC Oake to death was an asylum seeker whose application had been refused but had not been deported. New Labour has its own agenda; preventing the killing of British citizens is clearly not part of it.

Only 1% of asylum-seekers have a genuine reason to be here, yet the government has not performed its duty and removed those who remain here illegally. It is clearly government intention to allow just about anyone to enter Britain, no matter how dangerous.

Abu Hamza has conducted a campaign of hate urging Muslim youths to rise up against us. Police took away from the Finsbury Park Mosque C.S. gas canisters, a stun gun, stolen credit cards, and passports as well as illegal immigrants.

There are Taliban soldiers living in Britain who were defeated in Afghanistan by American and British troops. The United States has not only intervened in the affairs of that nation state, but has treated Taliban prisoners in the most inhuman way. This has naturally created anger in the minds of the defeated soldiers and we should not be surprised if Afghans and now Iraqis living in Britain commit acts of terrorism against us.

It is normal practice in the interest of national security to round up nationals from any country that one is at war with. New Labour has done just the very opposite.

3,000 Algerians, many of whom are known to have links with the armed Islamic group GIA, are known to have entered the UK.

The government has also allowed into Britain countless thousands of Muslims from three continents, including many who are known to harbour grudges against the British government over its support for the American Bush administration. It is not only the Arabs who are furious at Tony Blair and his Jewish advisory think-tank. This anti-nationalist body is financed by Sir Evelyn de Rothschild and chaired by Peter Mandelson has been setting the policies which are now causing much fury, anxiety and hardship among the native British. This unrepresentative think-tank rides roughshod over the UKs national interest and holds our nation in contempt.

Not for the first, or even the second time, Rothschild interference in our politics has helped drag our country into war.

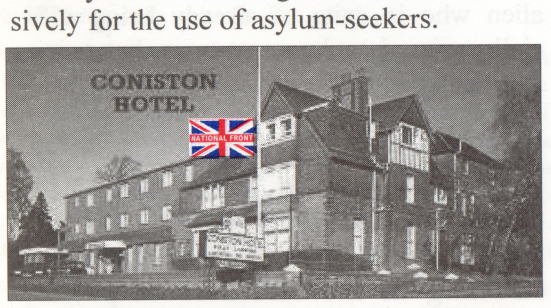
This is of course a complete sham, as New Labour are literally giving away our country as fast as they can.

Within days of promising to toughen up on asylum applications the Home Secretary was attempting to buy, with public money, a country hotel in Sittingbourne, Kent, exclusively for the use of asylum-seekers.



When public uproar broke out over the news of this, a Home Office spokesman said that the locals had no right to be informed that the hotel was to be used for asylum-seekers.

It has generally been accepted that the vast majority of these so-called asylum-seekers are nothing of the kind.

They are in the main belligerent males out to take advantage of our Christian hospitality and the infrastructure in Britain that generations of our people made financial sacrifices to create.

The National Health Service is failing our people, not only through government lack of interest and incompetence, but because of the enormous extra burden created by refugees, asylum-seekers and illegal immigrants.

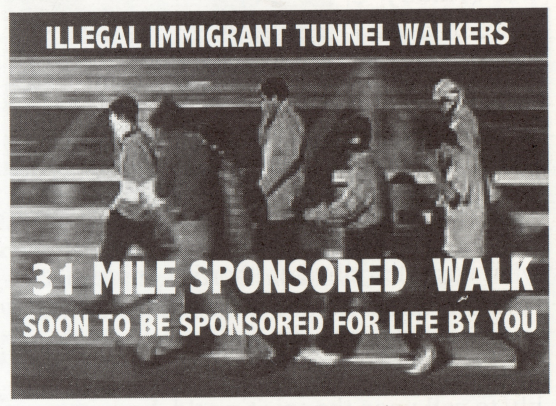
The government makes numerous excuses as to why the transport system is unable to cope. The reason is obvious. Passenger numbers have swelled alarmingly as a result of immigration in all its forms.

Similarly schools and social services also are unable to perform adequately because of the extra burden created by foreigners with all their needs and demands.

Up until 1960 Britain was an all-white, peaceful Christian country without the problems of racial or religious divisions except for in Northern Ireland. Many countries such as Cyprus, Israel, America and India/Pakistan were bedevilled by having more than one nation or religion residing in the one area. Conflicts broke out regularly between the various factions. In all of these countries the problem of multi-racialism seems to be both permanent and unsolvable.

To deliberately create in Britain not just one division but dozens of competing racial, religious, cultural and national entities all fighting for supremacy is an act of criminal insanity.

Successive governments have controlled public opposition to mass immigration with the charge of racism. This meaningless term has had an almost magical influence over a large proportion of the population. Everyone detests political correctness, the anti-white aspect of it in particular. The acceptance by large sections the public of this alien-conceived, racialist nonsense, is bringing about our national destruction. The government-planned alien invasion of our country has created numerous problems.



Even immigrants who have been here for some time are complaining about the unfairness of allowing even more foreigners to come here, particularly as we have insufficient funds for essential services and pensions, as well as a new threat of alien terrorist activity.

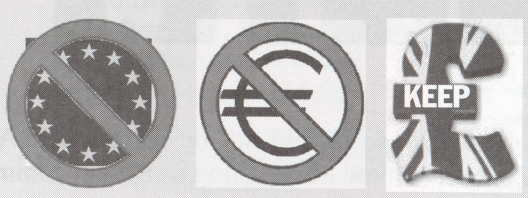
BRITAIN FIRST

THE THIEVING EU

From the moment that we signed up to the EEC it became a costly exercise. In the United Kingdom we had been paying Purchase Tax on luxury goods only.

This consisted of items such as jewellery, expensive perfume and cameras. Once we entered the EEC, the euro tax, VAT was not only levied on most goods but on labour service charges as well. We have been informed by motor dealers that VAT has been added to the purchase tax, which was never removed. This is one reason why cars are more expensive in Britain.

New Labour claims to have no money for the services, which we require. Yet Tony Blair is reported to have pledged an extra £800 million of our money to the EU each year on top of the £3.5 billion a year we already hand over.



It is time to cut links with the EU, protect our sovereignty, say no to the euro and direct our money towards where it is needed.

GOVERNMENT CAUSES MORE MISERY

In order to save a mere £500 million pounds ten million pensioners and six million families on benefits will be severely inconvenienced. No longer will they be able to call at their local post office to collect money from their current order books or Giro cheques. Tony Blair's incompetent, bull headed and cost-cutting government has already closed 2,000 post offices, mostly in rural areas, with many more to be shut down.

This legislation, which has taken a vital amenity away from villagers, is also an act of social engineering aimed at destroying the soul of these communities. When collecting their pensions, neighbours meet for a chat. The topic of conversation recently has been Blair's dreadful government and what it is doing to our beloved country. By closing post offices New Labour will have put a stop to much of that.

Very convenient for Tony and his pals, isn't it?

PENSIONER MURDERED BY DRUG ABUSER

The teenager responsible is a cannabis drug user, he stabbed Mabel 20 times causing what were described as "horrific injuries". He then callously cut out the old ladies heart and poured her blood into a saucepan. While using a candle and pokers, presumably to call upon the spirit world, he performed a macabre ritual and drank the pensioner's blood. A psychiatric report concluded that the murderer was perfectly sane and responsible for his actions.

The government wants to downgrade and legalise drugs, which we believe to be wrong.

It is not only the users who are at risk from drug abuse as we can see with the gruesome murder of Mabel Leyshon.

UNDER SIEGE BY RACIST ASIAN THUGS

Pensioner Pat Booth, is a resident of Tinsley in Sheffield, she has suffered an ongoing campaign by local Asian thugs, who have been trying to drive her out of her home.

Her terrace house was severely damaged in an arson attack in an attempt to scare Pat away. After repairs to the house she bravely returned home, only to be met with constant abuse and racial taunts by Asians.

Mrs. Booth believes that the motive behind the immigrant campaign of terror is to force her to sell her house at a knockdown price. Since returning a rear window of the house was shattered by a large piece of concrete, this happened soon after the pensioner had retired to bed.

Young thugs have gathered in groups and openly stated that they want her out. Pat said that she was unable to move because she was living in the cheapest area and could not afford to go anywhere else.

If Mrs. Booth had been an immigrant her case would have been continually highlighted on the TV and in the daily press, until something was done.

In modern day Britain politicians are more concerned about the well-being of foreigners and dipping their fingers into the public purse than they are about us.

A TRUE BRITISH HERO WHO DESERVES AN OBE

Robert Relf came to public attention some years ago when he became a victim of the Race Relations thought police as a result of putting up a board in his front garden, which read, " FOR SALE TO ENGLISH ONLY".

For this so-called crime he was sent to jail. Fed up with the injustice, he went on hunger strike until his condition became life threatening. At this point the then Home Secretary, William Whitelaw, became nervous and arranged for his release. Robert came out just in time to be guest of Honour at the National Front AGM. Whitelaw was nicknamed Wetlaw on account of having no backbone when it came to standing up for the British. He was typical of most of the members of the Thatcher government.

More recently, Robert Relf has refused to complete his census form because he was not allowed to describe himself as "English" on it. For this act of just defiance he received three days in prison. He was the only person in Britain to be jailed for a census offence.

A true patriot, Robert saw red when he heard that police officers in the Midlands ordered a newsagent to remove from his window a flag advertising St George's Day. In a rage, our English patriot sent out postcards bearing the word "traitors" and the message that he was annoyed that immigrants were complaining about our flag, these he sent to senior police chiefs to let them know what he thought of their despicable behaviour. Mr Relf said that he was "trying to wake people up to the fact that it was St Georges Day." After admitting to sending the so-called abusive postcards, Robert was fined £500. He was also fined a further £55 for sending what was described as an offensive cartoon of a racial type to a female inspector.

He has told the court that he has no intention of paying any fines and on a matter of principle would go to prison. (No room for serious criminals but they can find room for Robert Relf and farmer Tony Martin.) Robert told the court "immigrants come to this country from the four corners of the earth. They live the life of old Riley and then have the audacity to have a go at our flag." He added, "Being English is like being a minority in this country." After the government's decision to give community service to criminals rather than send them to prison, the patriot decided to put this to the test. He asked the magistrate if HE could do community service to make amends and was told that this is not an option for non-payment of fines. Robert then declared that he would go to Canterbury prison and starve himself to death.

At 78 years-of-age, Robert is a true hero, and if more Britons were prepared to make a stand we would no longer be third-class citizens in our own country.

Mr K. Kitchen, a supporter of Robert Relf had a letter printed in their local newspaper, It said that people should take note that they are dealing with a man who served King and country, when for six years we worked, fought and bled, in response to the entreaty that it was to "keep an invader from our shores." Two weeks ago a police officer, also serving Queen and country, was stabbed and killed whilst on duty. His assailant was an alien who in spite of already being officially refused asylum, not once, but twice, still remained in this country.

It is not Robert Relf, feeling justifiably angered and betrayed, who should be harassed for trivial offences, but the traitors and impostors strutting in the corridors of power, who in less than a single century have reduced the head of the greatest, noblest Empire known to civilisation, to a cesspit.

LABOUR'S ASIAN FRIENDS THREATEN TO ATTACK

During February in Birmingham Muhammed Anwar, speaking for the 110,000 Muslims who live there has threatened that, unless more changes are made to their satisfaction, the city is likely to be torn apart by the same kind of violence that erupted in Bradford 18 months ago.

Why should we tolerate such threats? Asians have admitted that more public money is spent on their communities than on ours and they do not suffer intimidation by the Red Guard of the Race Relations industry. It seems that all they have to do now is to threaten to smash up our towns and cities and attack our people to get a whip hand over us. What an intolerable situation, but one that pleases our treacherous politicians and despicable communist judges.

We should not have to put up with their alien threats, criminal activity or attacks upon ourselves. The only hope for a return to peace is to repatriate these violent and demanding foreigners back to their countries of origin.

The blame for the violence and failed multi-racial experiment lies entirely with the Labour, Liberal and Conservative Parties who have doggedly adhered to the Communist Party Manifesto.

Bradford Riots

These anti-British organisations need to be ostracised to the point that they are forced to close due to lack of support.

We have heard that many Muslims living in Manchester have voiced the opinion that they do not see a long-term future for themselves in Britain. If the British public make their voices heard and demand that they return home it will happen. If, on the other hand, we allow fawning politicians to give in to their every whim, the Asians will decide that we are weak and gutless and remain a constant threat to our people for evermore.

The voting public have installed in Parliament the most devious, unrepresentative and dangerous government we have ever had.

It is unfortunate that New Labour were elected during the critical period of the asylum-seeker invasion, the question of our acceptance of the single currency and all that entails, as well as the time that the United States have made their push to take control of the few remaining countries they do not control.

Mass public demonstrations may for a short while divert the government's attention to what is important to us, but in order to regain control of our country we need to elect British patriots.

The NF stood for the first time up in Aberdeen and received a respectable 4%.

Well done to all NF Candidates!

ALL IT TAKES FOR EVIL TO SUCCEED IS FOR GOOD MEN TO DO NOTHING

All it takes for evil to succeed is for good men to do nothing, and there are plenty of good men doing nothing today.

Week by week evil doers are being allowed to make changes to our laws and legislation which takes us further down the road of tyranny, delinquency, drugs culture, violence and immorality. In the name of freedom we are being enslaved by men who have proclaimed that they are both anti- Christian and anti-white. So where are the concerned white Britons? Why are they not defending their children, their culture, their religion and their country?

When involved in a struggle with another force, whether it is a person or a group of people, there are certain obvious psychological ploys, which, if used correctly, will nearly always guarantee victory in the struggle. One such ploy is to convince the opposition that they cannot possibly win. Another is to convince them that to continue in the struggle is to resist the will of God. Still another is to convince the opposition they do not really need to resist and fight, as someone else will do the real work for them and save them the trouble.`
All of these tactics are being used (for the most part successfully, I might add) against White Christians today.

It is done by the simple use of one doctrine virtually universal among "churches". That doctrine is "the future return of the Messiah" (commonly called Jesus Christ). Through this doctrine well-intentioned men and women are convinced this world we live in will get worse and worse no matter how many truly faithful, Holy Spirit-led followers pray, fast and act in an effort to the contrary. This doctrine also teaches we can't win, that if we do resist, we are resisting the will of God. We are told, "These are the end times". Things are ordained by God to deteriorate to near oblivion, evil must triumph at this time." This is followed by the comforting clincher. I can hear it now. "Yes, this world and our people must go to hell in a handbasket. There is nothing we can do about it. It is the ordained will of the Almighty God". So if you get upset by the horrible evil of it all just remember, Christ is coming soon and He will fix it all himself.

The problem is Christians are so concerned with their own personal salvation with Christ, with saving their own skins, they can talk only of "getting saved" or "being saved" and going off to a far away place called heaven. It has often been observed that most Christians are so heavenly minded that they are no earthly good. In actual fact, the Bible says very, very little about "personal salvation". The Bible is over 70% law, perhaps as high as 85%. These are Laws that are the rules about how to run a nation, rules of conduct for countries. (These are the laws which we have allowed our elected politicians to either remove or reverse.)
Yet instead of concentrating on how to reclaim this country and world for Christianity, Christians are thinking, talking, singing only of going to heaven, or being in a future kingdom. No wonder Christians aren't taking the lead in restructuring the world - they don't even think they will be here more than just a few short years at most!

Christians are not teaching God's law about race mixing. Instead they are busy teaching the "brotherhood" of man, whatever that means, and our race is being bred out of existence, led by the Christians. The Christians aren't worried because, again, the world and everything on it, according to the "Christ is coming soon" theory, is going to be burned to a cinder and it won't make any difference if our race loses its identity. Christians aren't taking the lead in politics. Less than half of the Christians vote and when they do it is for our ungodly enemies.
Christians who believe in the "Christ is coming soon" theory have trouble seeing past the immediate future.

They can't see that we are going to be on this planet for thousands of years.

They can't see that what we do directly affects the future of not only our children, but also our grandchildren and great grandchildren. On the other hand, if Christ knew what he was talking about and really was coming during the lifetime, of the generation living in 31 A.D., and has already returned, then we are in serious error when we look for his return in the near future.

It means we had better revaluate everything we do instead of looking at the short-term benefits to ourselves; we should be considering the long-term effects on future generations.

FRONTLINE NEWS

SCOTTISH UPDATE

Since the beginning of 2003, our members in Scotland have stepped up their activities in their local areas.

There have been leaflet drops and papersales in the following areas, Aberdeen, Perth, Paisley, Edinburgh and also in Glasgow. These activities have resulted in a number of enquiries and several new members joining our ranks.

We have also gained a lot of support in Aberdeen due to the distribution of 1,000s of our specially designed leaflets highlighting the plans by our city council to build a new mosque at a site on the beach front. The liars in the council have denied that there have been any plans lodged regarding the building of the mosque but we have obtained proof from the councils own website stating that the plans are at an advanced stage.

I was contacted by the Daily record newspaper and asked if I would be willing to do an interview regarding the new mosque. The interview took place and the article printed in the Daily record was a disgrace. The reporter called me among other things a thug and a liar. After receiving legal advice it was decided that I should take legal action against the newspaper. This is now in the hands of my solicitor. On the plus side, after the article was published we received applications for memberships from several people who live near to where the Mosque is being built.
Plus I stood as a candidate for the first time in the local elections in the Seaton ward of Aberdeen. Not the best result we could have hoped for but a reasonable and encouraging result for our first attempt.

Many thanks to those who have donated to the election fund for Scotland.

NF ACTION IN BICESTER

Bicester National Front kicked off to a good start this year when Jim Starkey and colleagues, supported by activists from Home Counties and the Midlands held a successful day of action in the town centre and surrounding area against government plans to locate an "asylum seeker" centre in the area against strong local opposition. This was the second such activity in Bicester, the previous being an anti-paedophile/asylum centre demonstration in the town last August.

Large numbers of the Flame were sold and many leaflets taken by the many local people stopping off from their afternoon's shopping to express concern over the effect such an establishment, which will be accommodating around 750 young males would have upon their community. Their anxiety could only have been heightened when bearing in mind how a similar centre in Bedfordshire was destroyed by fire in a night of riot and mayhem during February last year.

There later followed a door-to-door leaflet drop of a nearby residential area, followed by a brief demonstration at the site of the planned centre.

The proposed Bicester "asylum seeker" centre was the subject of a well-attended public inquiry held at the garrison theatre on February 26th. A representative from the Home Office was present as were several hundred local people to hear many valid arguments against the centre. Among those presenting the case against were local NF organiser and prospective council candidate Jim Starkey, Deputy NF Chairman Bernard Franklin and Directorate member Derek Godfrey.

Not unexpectedly, given the strength of public feeling over the asylum issue, all those opposing the centre, including the National Front, received enthusiastic support from the many people present.

WANT WORK?

SORRY ASYLUM SEEKERS ONLY

The government wants to bring in extra immigrants under the pretext that they are coming to fill jobs.

5,000 we are told are coming to work in factories and as fruit pickers. Britain now produces very little and the skeleton manufacturing industry, which is left, is going bankrupt very rapidly. This is because we cannot compete with coolie labour. Two years ago, the British soft fruit farmers said that they would have to let their crop rot in the fields, because even students who had done the job in the past, could no longer work for the small amount that farmers could afford to pay.

The new terminal at Heathrow airport is now under construction and workers are being taken on. Jobs paying from £32,000 to £55,000 per annum are being offered exclusively to refugees and other foreigners living around the airport. This is an area with a high percentage of aliens and a large contingent of asylum seekers.

Despite the clear advantage that these foreigners have in getting this work, refugees have been contacted directly and offered jobs. Organisations, which aid refugees, have been advertising for workers solely in temples and mosques. The wages for manual workers on this project are above the earnings of many professional people.

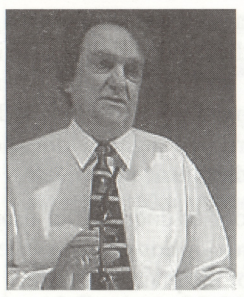
Once again it seems to be a case of "whites need not apply".

CUCKOO'S IN THE NEST

A team of Muslim governors took control of Washwood Heath Technology College in Birmingham. Once the Asians took charge of the running of the school they began forcing out white staff, and recruiting Asians, regardless of their ability, in order to try and turn the school into one for Moslems only.

70 per cent of the pupils were Muslim and, overall, 85 per cent of the students foreign. (This brings back memories of the old NF poster of Birmingham railway station with the caption " Britain faces a black future)

We can understand their desire to have an exclusive Muslim-only school for it is our wish to have all white schools. However, allowing these people from Asia to take over a comprehensive school in one of major cities is scandalous. It really is a case of "cuckoos in the nest".



Tim Brighouse, the Birmingham Director of Education, selected Shahid Malik, an Asian member of the Labour Party National Executive, to oversee an enquiry into the scandal affecting the school.

Malik himself had been arrested during the Burnley race riots, although predictably no charges were brought against him.

The general public can expect no help from the government, they will have to organise themselves to counter the take-over of our country.

IMMIGRATION HAS NOT IMPROVED OUR LIVES

For years, throughout the country, people have noticed that foreigners are given priority in housing, greater social security benefits, more consideration by the authorities and often priority when requiring treatment on the NHS. Four people from different regions have told us that the Council housing departments they work for have a ruling that houses and ground-floor flats should be allocated to immigrants, and the British housed on the upper floors. All of this despicable favouritism to aliens has come about through a programme of what our elected leaders call "positive discrimination".

We do not feel positive about these impositions, but it clearly delights parliament and foreigners to see the British become dispossessed for their benefit.

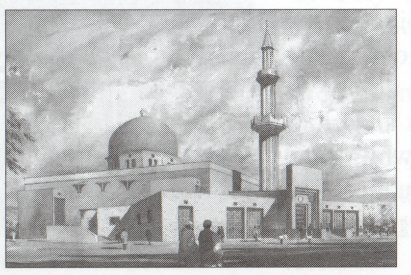
No health checks are carried out on those entering our country. Often, they arrive from regions where life-threatening diseases are common. We have to live and work among these people and, particularly in areas such as crammed railway carriages, we put ourselves at risk of infection.

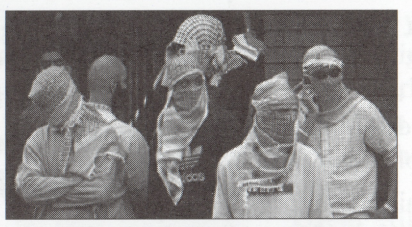
Our children are often in classes which are made up predominantly of pupils from the third world but, should we complain or want to free ourselves from the obvious health risks, we are prevented from doing so by ridiculous and oppressive race laws.

Even worse is the fact that immigrants with diseases are being allowed to work in hospitals and in the preparation and manufacturing of our food.

The recent cases of the HIV-infected nurses whose identity we are not allowed to know are just one instance out of thousands. This unacceptable state of affairs, we might point out, was brought to our attention by the press, not the government.

If anyone has any doubt that there are some in parliament who prefer to see the British public dead rather than alive, he should look at their most recent actions. For decades the Americans have been upsetting the Arab world. The United States' continuing support for Israel, no matter what atrocities that country inflicts on the Palestinians, has heightened tension in the region. America's threat to bomb Iraq has understandably created hatred and fear in Moslems. Iraq does not have the military capability of the United States, so it has turned to terrorism. This is the only way it sees of a David beating a Goliath. Quite needlessly, Tony Blair has decided to back George Bush in this insane war and commit our troops to the attack - thus causing a deep hatred of the British in the minds of Arabs and Moslems.





Despite the obvious dangers, New Labour has allowed and encouraged terrorists to come and live in our inner cities, from where they have been permitted to carry out their campaigns of hate. In the main they live within the ever-growing number of alien townships, which are changing the face of Britain.

Ignoring public objection, successive governments have backed the undesirable foreigners in their demands to be allowed to build mosques and set up alien communities in Britain.

It is within these alien townships that terrorist groups have been established and fanatical and bitter Moslems are plotting their terrorist campaigns.

To add insult to injury, we find that most of these dangerous and unwelcome guests are living free at the taxpayer's expense.

Tony Blair has warned the British public to expect acts of terrorism to be conducted against us anywhere, and at any time.

A whole range of weapons could be used against us, including those of an explosive, biological or chemical nature.

The Prime Minister clearly has little regard for the safety of the British nation.

CAN EUROPE LEARN THE LESSONS OF YUGOSLAVIA?

An excerpt from an essay by Tomislav Sunic

Can Europe learn the lessons of Yugoslavia? Or will it continue to build societies destined to explode?

If three quite similar East European peoples went murderously to war against each other, one can imagine what will happen when intercommunal wars in multicultural cities of Western Europe gather steam. To anyone not completely blinded by "anti-racist propaganda, what has happened in Yugoslavia casts a very dubious light on the viability of multi-racialism.

Events are forcing themselves into public notice, and the first cracks in the belief in multiethnic conviviality are beginning to appear. For years local turf wars between young Germans and Turkish gangs were seldom reported by the German media. Now even journalists in the ultra-liberal Der Spiegal can no longer avoid reporting on the "ticking ethnic time bombs" in the suburbs of European capitals. Street battles between native Britons and East Asians that leave scores of injured can no longer be hidden or under reported.

The racial profile of Europe has changed dramatically over the last 30 years. A visit to any large town in Western Europe will turn up staggering numbers of uneducated non-whites, mostly Muslims. Just as in the United States, any criticism of these newcomers is branded as "racism" or "facism" but in private, there is much resentment of Third World immigration.

As in the United State, there is a growing tendency among European whites towards sullen political apathy and flight from non-whites, punctuated by sudden outbursts of hostility towards foreigners. That supra-state, the EU is a volcano waiting to explode.

Russia and Eastern Europe have been largely spared the immigration onslaught and are now the last major white enclaves on the planet. According to statistics on the number of Third-world residents in Western Europe compiled in 1995 by the Catholic relief association "Caritas," Western Europe has over 19 million foreign immigrants while Eastern Europe has practically none.

In one of the great ironies of our time, East and West have swapped places in terms of freedom of inquiry. During the Communist terror it was forbidden to question Marxist dogma. Today, it is in Western Europe that criticism of racial or historical dogma can end the career of a scholar or politician, and even send him to prison. By contrast in the bookshops of Moscow, Budapest or Zagreb one can find plenty of books about race or historical revisionism.

It is not to be ruled out that Eastern Europe will become the safe haven for Western dissidents, just as the West was once a haven for dissidents from the East.

People who differ from each other appreciate each other best when they live apart. When they are forced to live together into an unnatural union, intercommunal violence is bound to erupt into a never-ending spiral of incrimination and hatred. The proponents of multiculturalism refuse to understand this, and continue to trumpet their belief in utopia. particularly to brain-washed young whites. It has now been abundantly proven that multiracialism is academic nonsense and works nowhere in the world. The safest, and most prosperous countries are those that enforce strict immigration laws, and whose citizens are homogeneous and proud of their roots Scarcely-populated Iceland and densely-populated Japan are good examples of viable states.

Multiracialism under different names and slogans has for decades provided the fodder for leftist intellectuals. It is intolerable for them that the multi-racial experiment in Yugoslavia failed, and Western countries have spent billions of dollars trying to force Balkan peoples that hate each other to live together. Now that the multiethnic states Czechoslovakia, Soviet Union, and Yugoslavia- are gone, left-leaning EU officials have doctored up a new multiethnic role model, the European Union itself.

The small yet growing number of nationalist, anti-multicultural young people all over Eastern and Western Europe may yet put an end to this dangerous fantasy. At the same time, unlike in the United States, there are influential parties like the National Front in France, The Freedom Party in Austria, and the Vlaams Blok in Belgium, whose leaders fully understand that the future of Europe lies in the balance. Whatever one may think of the merits of pan-Europeanism, there might have been some hope of a union that was racially and culturally European.

Now with more than 15 million immigrants in its midst, it is questionable whether the European Union can even call itself European. How to come to terms with its own inefficient and terrified bureaucracy, and how to weather the storms of its own impending balkanisation?

These are the questions on everybody's mind - and on no government's agenda.

SHOCK COUNCIL TAX RISES

Massive council tax increases have recently been set. Nigel Waterson, the MP for Eastbourne, informs us that the council tax for his borough has increased by a staggering 38%. In some other areas the rates have risen by 20% to 23%.

This steep rise will create hardship for many. In ten years the rates have doubled, which is way above the rate of inflation. In spite of the enormous tax burden that has arisen since New Labour came to power, services have generally got worse. The sale of council owned playing fields and properties that has occurred around the country has only deprived communities without any financial gain.

We may ask where does all of this extra money go. One answer is that there are too many local administrators, many occupying their time putting a political stamp on public life.

Asylum-seekers are the latest rapidly growing expense we have become aware of. So too the army of race-awareness officers and their like, as well as interpreters for every language.

Councillors who once acted out of a voluntary spirit of public duty are now paid handsomely for a few nights' work. Tony Blair created the office of Mayor of London because he believed it would deliver another tier of power to New Labour. "Red Ken" Livingstone and his office have increased the tax burden without improving services. Since Livingstone became Mayor, his cost to the council taxpayers has gone up. In the London Borough of Barnet it has risen by 82%. Chancellor Gordon Brown has also been responsible for council tax hikes by reducing government grants to councils.

Council tax is often spent on hair-brained schemes, which are of no benefit to the community whatsoever. The public, and particularly the indigenous British, are often looked upon with contempt by the officials of the old parties who are far more interested in the welfare of foreigners. An example of this "English don't count" attitude was seen in Burnt Oak, North West London, where a sports centre for the residents, due to open in April, was put in jeopardy when Barnet council considered selling the site to a wealthy Hindu sect from Luton. There is nothing for the young people to do on the large estate affected and the teenagers have been let down by the council.

Mike Freer defended his decision to sell by saying no matter how deprived the Burnt Oak area was, having the council spend £5 million on a leisure centre in one ward would be unfair on other parts of the Borough. This statement is misleading because teenagers from other parts of the Borough would have access to it. The English are once more the losers and will be deprived of the social centre, which they had been promised.

One more piece of England was put up for grabs by foreigners with the connivance of the Lib, Lab, Con traitors of Barnet

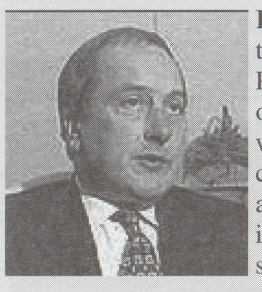
LABOUR - A PARTY FOR IMMORALITY, FILTH AND PERVERSION

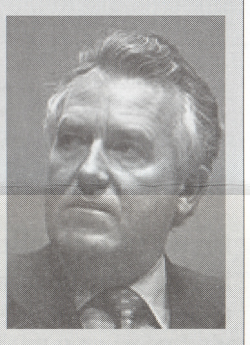
Hardly a week goes by without us hearing reports of either a child being murdered or a youngster being abducted and sexually abused.

Even old-age-pensioners have been raped while in hospital. But, then, is it any wonder, considering how many of our politicians have the morals of alley-cats and even more of those who monopolise the media minds like sewers. Those who have shaped society for the past forty years despise the moral code, which once made Britain a successful and civilised society.

Labour MP Clive Betts has been outed as a man who seeks casual homosexual sex with strangers. He went for an introduction to what used to be called a "house of ill repute". The MP, showing no shame, employed the homosexual escort he found, to act as a "researcher" for him in the House of Commons. According to the Daily Mail of Oct 24th 02, the Labour Chief Whip was fully aware of this and didn't see a problem. Those living in the constituency, which he represents, are rightly appalled by his behaviour.



Ron Davies, the "Clapham Common Prowler", finally went one disgusting act too far when he was caught coming out of a wood after allegedly engaging in a sex act with a stranger.



Peter Hain, an undesirable immigrant who currently holds the position of Welsh Secretary, said of Ron Davies: "It's a tragic end to an impressive political career. Ron made a major contribution to public life in Wales over the years, not the least as the architect of devolution."

We regard devolution and the break-up of the United Kingdom as an act of treason.

It seems that we have no system of film censorship in Britain anymore. Anything can now be screened. A film called Irreversible is about as violent and repugnant as it could possibly be.

There are horrendous, graphic scenes of one of the most brutal murders and rape scenes ever screened. We no longer have a Board of Film Censors, and anything now seems permissible.

There now only exists a Board of Film Classification. This body is reluctant to censor anything. It only sees its task as placing films into their relevant classification.

Could the title "Irreversible" be a message to the public from those who control Britain that they have taken us to the point of no return?

North West NF growth continues

The National Front has continued its rapid progress in NW England. The problems of crime, drugs and racial conflict are especially acute in this region. Local voters have responded well to the NF's programme for British revival.

Greater Manchester NF has been particularly active, with meetings and leaflet campaigns in central Manchester, Oldham and Stockport.

Leaflets have also been issued in the party's newest branch, Blackburn, where several council wards are being targeted in advance of the 2004 elections (there are no Blackburn elections this year).

The local newspaper, the Lancashire Evening Telegraph, has already carried a long report on NF activity in the town and an interview with the Blackburn organiser Mark Cotterill. New members have begun activity in Bolton, Clitheroe and Tameside.

Darren Dobson, NF spokesman for Oldham and Royton, commented: Many activists who have become disillusioned with other political parties have seen that the NF is the only party honestly addressing Britain's problems and have joined us, along with other ordinary members of the public who have never been active in politics before. Now is the time for all British people in the region to stand up and be counted in defence of their communities."

A well attended meeting in Oldham town centre agreed that the real war affecting British interests was here at home, not in the deserts of Iraq. Several NF members in Oldham are ex-servicemen, and while fully supporting their comrades in action this month they are appalled by Tony Blair's surrender to alien interest groups.

Earlier in February members from Manchester and Stockport travelled to Bicester to support the NF's campaign against the vast invasion of asylum seekers which threatens this Oxfordshire town.

We thank Bicester NF for their hospitality, and look forward to entertaining guests from other regions in the future!

The North West of England was the engine room of Britain's industrial revolution and imperial expansion. After years of decline it is now the front line of national and racial recovery, as Britons rally in support of their only patriotic party – the National Front.

EDUCATION - WHAT WE HAVE TO OVERCOME

For the past 30 years or more, Marxists within the teaching profession have been driving out good teachers and replacing them with incompetents who use their positions to advance the cause of socialism.

There have been numerous reports of headmistresses and teachers being expelled for even mildly disciplining a child. Susan Maloney is a case in point. After a 29- year unblemished record, she was dismissed for calling a boy who misbehaved a "wimp". Mrs Maloney, the deputy head teacher, was reported to have been the best teacher the Church of England school ever had.

Much of the school curriculum has been designed to destroy the British nation. Teachers have been told to include anti-racist propaganda in every lesson. As a result of this Marxist political directive, so much time has been devoted to turning young minds away from traditional beliefs that the teaching of essential subjects has suffered alarmingly. Illiteracy levels have been rising since the communist take-over of our schools during the "swinging sixties", and the standards achieved in math's by the average pupil is now abysmally low. Even geography, history and science lessons have become casualties of political-correctness.

Now that schools have been swamped by Asians, ministers have suggested that schools should teach Urdu and Punjabi instead of the European languages French, German and Spanish. Since Tony Blair's government has been in power, the standards of education has fallen from poor to disgraceful. This is not surprising, for creating a nation of socialist automatons has taken priority over genuine education. In order to achieve what has been called a "dumbing down", classics have been removed from the bookshelves and replaced with politically-correct propaganda.

In 1998 it was estimated that over a million pupils were being taught by untrained staff. Since then the problem has got rapidly worse and prospects look bleak with one third of teachers wanting to leave the profession. It is the Labour Party who introduced the awful comprehensive system of education and called for the abolition of enforced discipline in schools.

The result has been bedlam which the National Front always said it would be from the very beginning.

During the second-world-war, and for the two decades following, there was a strong feeling of national identity in the British. This idea of being part of something worthwhile created a bond of loyalty and common purpose.

Once the doctrines of multi-racialism arrived in the schools and were often brutally dispensed by hardline-Marxist teachers, the feelings of national loyalty waned. This caused every British child to see himself as a mere individual standing against all around him. The result has been that many of our children see themselves as outsiders, a view encouraged by left-wing teachers and reinforced where whites are outnumbered by immigrants.

Due to these problematic changes in our schools, bullying has become a serious problem, one that has driven an increasing number of bright and intelligent children to commit suicide. Bullying is a problem that is spoiling the educational chances of many children, while making their lives intolerable. Improvements cannot be made, until teachers are allowed to take an appropriate course of action with the bullies that the situation demands.

Neil Brett, the headmaster of St Edmund's Roman Catholic School expelled two pupils who were caught dealing in drugs. A political decision was taken by the Portsmouth City Council, which ruled that the two boys must be reinstated. This pro-drug attitude in schools is further being reinforced by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority. They have told teachers they should avoid using "shock behaviour" tactics to prevent children from experimenting with substances. This abrogation of duty comes in the wake of a report which shows an alarming rise in the use of drugs by schoolchildren, including an increasing number of under-11s.

Gordon Brown promised in his 2002 Budget that funding for every primary school child would be substantially increased. Anxious teachers have reported that, one year on, no extra money has been forthcoming. The new Minister of Education, Charles Clarke, is yet another Marxist. He seems to be even worse than his predecessor, the pathetic Estelle Morris. Another of Tony Blair's schools ministers, David Milliband, is the son of Ralph Milliband, the Marxist academic who had a fellowship named after him at the notorious London School of Economics.

It is unfortunate that so many people did not realise when they voted for the Labour Party that they were casting their vote for the same anti-British left whom they had found repugnant some thirty years before.

NOT ALL BAD NEWS

Pope John Paul unveiled a 17-page document, which has been produced by the Vatican. It calls for laws to protect the family, which it says have to be based on a monogamous marriage between a man and a woman protected in its unity and stability. The Pope strongly opposes moves to legitimise same-sex marriages, and has told Catholics that they must not hide behind what is called "modern morality". The Vatican calls upon Roman Catholic politicians and voters to oppose laws on abortion and gay marriage.

Now, we need to put pressure on the other Christian denominations to make the same announcement.

THIS IS NOT THE WAY WE SEE IT

Columnist Simon Heffer recently wrote in the Daily Mail: "We recognised 16 months ago that the attack on America was an attack on our common civilisation."

Correction! The attack on our civilisation has been brought about by subversive ideology written into various forms of entertainment - in particular, much of that which has arrived from America.

The anti-British bias of the BBC, and programmes like Grange Hill, have had a strong, damaging influence also.

The drive towards enforced multi-racialism and multi-culturalism is destroying our identity and established culture.

Recent moves to forbid us flying our national flag, marking St Georges Day, calling ourselves English or outwardly celebrating Christmas have all been initiatives devised by our own government to eradicate our national character. This is what is destroying our civilisation. In this, Moslems have played no part. It is interesting to note that when Councils have prevented the National Front holding St George's Day rallies, always under the pretext that it would upset immigrants, it has often been Moslems who have spoken up for us and called for our activity to go ahead.

This proves what we have known all along: that, while immigrants are a severe problem, it is our own politicians who are our deadliest enemy.

TIME IS RUNNING OUT FOR NEW LABOUR

Over 85% of the British public want to see an end to asylum-seekers coming uninvited into our country.

The government was under the impression that the public could be pacified and fobbed off with excuses right, up until we would be outnumbered by foreigners, and therefore unable to outvote the aliens who would vote Labour.

However the asylum issue is on every bodies lips, radio phone in programmes and daily newspapers have for some time been giving vent to the publics anger.

Nationalist candidates have been winning elections and on the 23rd January not only did a nationalist win in a safe socialist ward, but also the Labour Party candidate was pushed into third place. Within five days of this humiliation for New Labour, Tony Blair thought he had better do something to give the impression that he had sympathy with the public; otherwise Labour may be forced out of office.

Nothing of course will change because the Labour Party views defending our borders as an act of Fascism.

BLOOD ON THEIR HANDS

This is not the case at all. It has been successive governments who have exploited the British public by betraying the trust placed in them.

At no time has any major party put in its manifesto that it intended to swamp Britain with foreigners. Of course not - because they knew the public would say NO.

If the Labour and Conservative parties had not been elected, we would not have immigrant enclaves to complain against. By falsely criticising and demonising us, establishment politicians have hoped to show themselves in a better light.

Their object has been to prove that at least they are not "racists" or "fascists", which in reality is only a meaningless epithet invented by them, and now applicable to nearly every one of us.

If we'd had our way, there would today be no serious drug problem, or racial strife. Crime and murder would have remained at the levels they were in the immediate post- second-world-war period. There would be no likelihood of us getting involved in a war with Iraq, and no foreign terrorists would be residing in Britain from where they can plot against us. We may ask who has the right to demonise whom?

As for the accusation of exploiting racial divisions for political gain, no one has been more persistently guilty of this than Tony Blair's friends, the American government. In order to gain a foothold in other people's countries, they have often stirred up, armed and funded segments of the local population of an ethnic or religious background differing from that of the leadership they have wanted to overthrow.

This is what they call "Destabilising, in order to achieve a regime change". Kings and dictators by their very nature prevent outside forces from making inroads into the body politic. For this reason, internationalists, one-worlders and communists will always try to bring down and replace the rule of all kings and dictators with a corruptible, bogus democracy.

This is what is happening in Iraq. It is not the character of Saddam Hussein that is America's stumbling block, but the supremely authoritative style of its leadership. That is what the U. S. is currently trying to replace.

Regime changes are brought about to benefit America, regardless of what is in the best interest of the nationals of those countries in its sights.

EUROCRATS ARE KILLING OUR FISHING INDUSTRY

Nowhere has political surrender been more devastating than in our fishing industry. Edward Heath signed away our fishing grounds in return for acceptance into the EEC.

This crass act of stupidity and treachery was carried out when the Prime Minister was relying on his think-tank for advice. Just before last Christmas an announcement from EU ministers placed extra restrictions on catches. This directive if followed, would all but wipe out what is left of our fishing industry.

Peterhead in Scotland, six years ago, was one of Europe's most successful white fish catching ports. At that time there was a fleet of 630 cod-fishing vessels, today there are 130. Brussels officials want cod catches reduced by 45%, haddock by 50% and whiting by 60%. EU directives aim to restrict Scottish trawlers to spending only 15 days a month at sea.

PETERHEAD HARBOUR - ANOTHER EU VICTIM

Scottish fishermen say that up to 40,000 jobs are likely to be lost if these proposals are followed. Similar concerns are shared by fishermen around Britain's coast. Fishermen in Cornwall whose families have lived off the sea for countless generations claim that they would no longer be able to rely on fishing for their livelihood. The Sea Fishing Industry Authority has revealed that trawler crews' earnings have fallen by 60% and profits are down by 75%. More than a third of smaller vessels are either making a loss or only just breaking even.

From the time we joined the EEC continental trawlers were allowed into our waters where they quickly began to ignore practices the British fleet had followed in order to conserve fish stocks. The Danes began fishing on the sea bottom catching immature fish. Soon after the Russians and Poles arrived with their enormous factory ships. More recently Spain was given £500 million of British taxpayers' money to modernise its fishing fleet. In order to accommodate this enlarged Spanish fleet, British fishermen are being held in port.

The EU has used the excuse of depleted fish stocks to create a restricted quota system. Dumping dead fish in the water in order to comply with the quota system has created more of a problem than British trawler men over fishing. The Danish industrial fleet is catching enormous amounts of fish daily, while British fishermen gaze at their moored vessels wondering how they are going to feed the family and pay the rent.

EU directives are merely suggestions, put forward by a group of ill informed theorists with their own political agenda. Parliament has the right to accept or reject any proposals that the EU proffers. If our government implements these directives, which are damaging to the British fishing industry, it is because our Westminster politicians have decided to do so.

French and Spanish governments often refuse to adopt EU policies, which are not in their national interest. Nor would we, if we had a patriotic government.

THE THREAT WE CANNOT IGNORE

The EU is the most sinister internationalist body today.

This monster which has got out of control is steadily eroding our freedoms, and already over half of our laws are made in Brussels.

A new EU treaty which has quietly been adopted by our treacherous politicians spells danger. Under the new draconian rulings the police in any EU country will have the right to make arrests on a trumped-up charge which is not even law in Britain. "Xenophobia" is a new crime invented by the Eurocrats. It was brought in to try and prevent criticism of the EU, which is already a crime in some EU countries. Calling our country England or describing oneself as Welsh could also lead to one's arrest and deportation to a far-off foreign court. Telling a gun-toting, black drug dealer that you do not want him seeing your daughter would also make you liable for prosecution under the new EU xenophobia laws. What makes this ruling even more unjust is that EU countries can interpret this law in any way they wish.

New EU legislation designed to give European governments permission to force phone and internet companies to retain detailed logs of their customers' communications for an unspecified period was opposed by civil liberty groups worldwide. European governments led by that of Tony Blair exerted immense pressure on the Eurocrats to ensure that these terrifying laws were implemented as soon as possible.

New Labour likes to use Human Rights laws to allow terrorists, Yardies and Taliban rebels to live among us, putting our lives at risk, yet human rights and freedoms for the British are something that New Labour seems determined to curtail.

The European arrest warrant is not the only sinister legislation, which could trap the innocent. For 15 years, there has been a law in place that makes it a punishable offence to issue what could be deemed insulting words, either spoken or written, against foreigners resident in Britain.

Up to two years imprisonment could be imposed for this dubious, perceived offence. This law is itself unjust, because interpretation would be made by the courts, and not by the person charged. Therefore, if the defendant makes a comment which is quite innocent, and the courts refuse to see it, not as it is, but how the judges deem it to be, the accused would fall victim to these draconian laws and could be sent to jail for two years. However, the government has now made it an offence to insult any nationality anywhere in the world with a maximum sentence of nearly eight years.

This is real police-state tactics. For instance, if you believe that any race or group are conspiring to carry out an attack or an act of genocide on another people, you could end up doing a long term in prison for having given warning of the danger, if you were to name the group responsible.

Turkey has become an important ally of America. We were contacted some years ago by a Turkish reporter we knew very well, who informed us that, much to his dismay, his country now has a government that has promised to be subserviant to America and Israel. It therefore came as no surprise that Tony Blair on behalf of the American government was keen to get Turkey's ambition of joining the EU finalised.

Our Prime Minister was reported to have put pressure on his EU partners by saying that "If Turkey is not allowed early entry to the European Union, the war against terrorism could be undermined." This absurd piece of rhetoric did the trick, but whether or not Turkey is in the EU will make no difference as to how terrorism can be dealt with.

The Poles, who have not been free for generations, have once more came under occupation when for a bribe of a mere £630 million their government agreed to join the EU. Clearly, the EU has been designed as a new Soviet Union, only this time without the non-communist west as an alternative. If it should have its way, even more rigid control would be enforced, while new technology would allow constant surveillance of everyone.

While we remain out of the single currency (EMU), we still have room to manoeuvre, but what is required is a complete withdrawal from the EU.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Flame - PO Box 274, Hemel Hempstead, Herts. HP3 9EQ

Dear Sir,

I met a lady recently whose daughter had just got married. The young couple saved for a long time so that they could go an exotic honeymoon in Bali. They went to a nightclub and had a really enjoyable evening and decided to go back the next night. Fortunately for them they did not return to that nightclub for it was to become a target of terrorists; a tomb; a mass grave. This couple's honeymoon became a trip of terror and they were unable to leave the country when they wanted to, because of further threats to airports. Muslim terrorists have decided to prey upon the tourist trade now, aiming to kill thousands of innocent tourists.

Meanwhile, in our country, there is much support for Bin-Laden and other Muslim extremists.

This same lady whose daughter went to Bali works in a nursing home for the elderly. A co-worker there openly supports these terrorist acts and thinks that this is the right way to react to the "west". There are many foreigners on our soil who hate the British and while they use our National Health Service and Benefits system they work to see us suffer. They are subversives in our midst. In my opinion they should be treated as spies were in 1939.

One of the excuses terrorists give for their unacceptable behaviour is that the West have used and abused them back in colonial times. This is utter nonsense. They were treated much better then by us, than they have been by their own leaders since independence. The west they hate so much gives vast sums in Overseas Aid, paid for by the British taxpayer. In addition full time charities like Oxfam raise considerable amounts for them. If there is ever a natural or man-made disaster anywhere in the world it is usually professional British rescue teams who carry out most of the work. When I shop in the supermarket there are shelves of fair-trade produce, and do you know ... I have never seen a foreign person buying them, only white English people.

While Muslim extremists blow people up and see fit to cause terror wherever they go, White Christian organisations strive to make people's lives better across the world. They would not have to do this if their OWN people and governments were not so cruel and harsh, if their systems were not so incompetent, corrupt, unforgiving and persecuting. These backward people neither understand nor value civil behaviour. If they are allowed to remain in the numbers envisaged by New Labour they will drag the standards in Britain down to that of the country's they have fled.

We need these people OUT of our country, NOW. We need a return to OUR values and ways. We need to protect OUR people. Foreign subversives are ruining our society and most people seem to be content to let that happen. I can only hope that the National Front gains enough support quick enough to prevent a national disaster from occurring.

THE SLEEPING BRITISH LION HAS BEEN AROUSED

The British nation along with all other white nations is currently fighting for its very survival and identity against what is generally perceived as political correctness. The term "Politically Correct" does not convey the sheer evil and destructive nature of what is the most lethal enemy we have ever encountered.

We should be on the streets, demanding our rights and jamming that usurper of power, the New World Order genie, back into its bottle. Instead of this, however, the public have been blinded, and their minds dulled, by an endless amount of inane and mind-numbing entertainment. Although it may appear senseless, it is achieving the calculated result of keeping the public in a bovine state, like a herd of tranquillised cows.

The public have finally been roused to anger and, like a field soaked in petrol, a fire of discontent is rapidly spreading throughout the country. The few communists who still insist that multi-racialism is a Godsend now not only look ridiculous, but are letting the public see the identity of those who are trying to destroy us. It takes much to get the white up from his armchair. For years his children have been denied a proper education, he has accepted the situation whenever left-wing and immigrant housing officials have told him that his own children don't count and will not be housed because all dwellings are reserved for immigrants and asylum-seekers. The patient Briton has watched his nation's youngsters, and maybe his own children, become addicts to life-threatening drugs. Daily, there are reports of some kind or other of brutal crime, including rapes, abductions, gun warfare and child murder. For years we have had to endure IRA terrorism. More recently, the Chinese Triads, followed by West Indian "Yardies" have been a problem. Now, East European criminal gangs have added to the appalling state of lawlessness. No one can consider himself safe anywhere in Britain, not even in the presumed safety of his own home.

CHARITY BEGINS WHERE?

Last Monday I visited the Bridges Post Office. The place was packed out with asylum seekers. They were all young well-dressed men. Later that evening I turned on to BBC at 7.30 p.m. and it showed the people who run the soup kitchens in Newcastle going down on the Quayside at night to supply the homeless with food. Among these homeless people were young men and women, older men and women, all British. So if you are homeless and English you get a bowl of soup. If you are a foreign immigrant you get a roof over your head, no bills to pay (just food and fags) and a cash handout at the Post Office every week! Who said charity begins at home?

Mrs C.Robson Sunderland

Dear Sir,

I travel around the country doing casual work, usually taking short-term employment in hotels. I can tell you of numerous instances of rampant racial hatred being displayed by immigrants towards whites, whereas Europeans live in fear of being accused of being racist. One particular episode disgusted me. I had been working at a hotel for several weeks, spending much time around the reception area. Time after time I heard guests refuse to pay for inedible and unappetising meals. This became so commonplace that the reception staff more or less admitted that the food was of a poor standard and the guests were let off paying. A new chef took over; the meals immediately improved considerably, to the point that guests were complimenting the chef. He had only been there for three weeks when I noticed him walking along a corridor with all of his belongings on a trolley. I presumed that the management were so pleased with his work, that they had given him more luxurious accommodation. I later found that he had received immediate dismissal for swearing at a dirty lazy immigrant who had regularly broken hygiene rules.

An open-eyed Englishman.

RUBBING OUT THE WHITE MAN

Camden in North West London is a Borough that has been run by the loony left for decades, and it shows. With many large houses, it was once occupied by members of a prosperous middle class. These desirable properties, which are now run down, have in the main been divided into bedsits and flats. It is difficult to say now whether the area looks like Nairobi, Marrakesh or Delhi, with open shop fronts and fruit and vegetables spilling onto the pavement. There are lights, music, noise and bustle going on until the early hours of the morning. We wonder do these blacks, Asians and Arabs, who now fill the area, really go and buy mangoes and potatoes at one o'clock in the morning, or is this a front for the lucrative drug trade.

Since the white man seems to bear no claim to this part of London anymore, Camden Council` took it upon itself to remove all of the Town Hall portraits of former local government elders, because they were deemed "too white". As many as 40 paintings of past Mayors, Alderman and town clerks dating back to the 1800's were removed. Camden Council officials said that they took them down because " they no longer reflected the modern and diverse community". This is a kick in the teeth for the Englishmen, but one that he brought on himself by voting Labour. You can stand in the Edgware Road in Camden and play spot the white man. Unless we make a stand every area in Britain will come to look like Camden.

THE FRAUDULENT PARTY SYSTEM

Under the guise of asylum-seekers, refugees and immigrants, foreigners from all over the world have been encouraged to come to Britain, by politicians who would describe themselves as both left-wing and internationalist. Our own people who are down on their luck are left to roam the streets and sleep rough in shop doorways, while uninvited foreign intruders are put up in hotels and given every possible luxury. The situation has become so grave that even the tabloid press who are accustomed to going along with Parliament's treachery are crying out for something to be done to stem the flood of bogus asylum-seekers.

However, the press are still way off target when they blame government ineptitude and stupidity for the problem. The fact is, the swamping of our country by immigrants and asylum-seekers is right on schedule, as planned by the New World Order many years ago. Governments have failed to improve the NHS, education and transport systems, simply because they have no interest in public services. Governments have, however, made rapid progress in making the British public subordinate to EU tyrants and their oppressive new rulings. They have also achieved a spectacular take-over of our country by foreigners. Parliamentarians are only interested in these two nation-conquering issues. Their sole aim is to vanquish the British nation and hand the British Isles over to an unelected new world order. This is not fiction - they have told us so - and every act they are carrying out is clearly aimed towards this objective.

In order to create a new world order, the old one must first be abolished. For countless centuries the world has been divided into countries, each with its own government, religion and culture. The secretive New World Order has been carrying out acts of subversion against established systems for centuries. The English and American Civil Wars, the French and Russian Revolutions - in all of these conflicts there has been evidence of the same hand of internationalism. In each of these cases the New World Order has been the only outright winner. Moslems and American right-wing Christians are among those who have correctly identified the New World Order as being evil. "Internationalist" is the word that those trying to take world power have used to describe themselves. "Anti-nationalist" or "anti-nation- state" would be a more accurate description. Anti-nationalist groups include communists, liberals, Fabians, the United Nations, NATO, The World Bank, the IMF and The World Development Organisation. The latter's intent is shown within its title, yet no one has ever given it authority to decide how the world should develop.

The second-world-war caused the Western nations, Britain, France, Germany, and Italy to be severely weakened and bankrupted. America - and, more importantly, New York - became the new world power. In 1939 there were internationalists of the New World Order who looked gleefully at the prospect of war in Europe and saw it as a means to transfer power to themselves. While waiting to take up a position as an officer, Tony Crosland was garrisoned for a while with some soldiers from the East End of London. He said that they were very friendly and helpful to one another but noted that they were fighting out of a vague feeling of patriotism. As a Fabian and internationalist, Crosland would never understand the meaning of patriotism. For him that was something to overcome. The Jewish-American President Roosevelt appears to have been another who was eager to see the destruction of the European Empires in order to further the advance of internationalism.

If the New World Order has been interfering in politics for so long, you may ask, how come so few people know of it. There have in fact been hundreds, if not thousands, of books written on the subject by authors in various countries during the last two hundred years. You will not, however, have found any of these books in a newsagents, bookshop or library. Internationalists have for many years taken control of literature distribution and what goes on the library shelves, carefully removing from public gaze all the books we would suggest you should read. Only recently has the public come to realise how powerful the politically-correct brigade are.

These communist busybodies are the foot soldiers of the New World Order and they have carefully censored all material that is made available to the public. This is why you cannot get the "Flame" (our quarterly publication) in any newsagents although you can get Arab, American, African, Irish and a whole host of other nation's papers. Even the patriotic magazine "This England" is hardly ever on view, but instead hidden under the counter for those who have ordered it. Since the arrival of the Race Relations Acts it has been a criminal offence to possess, let alone distribute books which expose the plotting and scheming of the New World Order. Many patriots and nationalists have been woken in the early hours of the morning by politically-correct police officers and harassed by them. Quite a number of patriots have been hauled into court, fined, threatened or given a jail sentence for what has been admitted by the prosecution to have been a crime of telling the truth.

Tony Crosland was a Fabian intellectual who did much to formulate early post-war Labour policy. It was Crosland who propounded "Comprehensive Education". This was done in order to lower standards and keep the British working class down. When he died some years ago many journalists wrote that as a result of Crosland's drive to comprehensive education, three generations had the quality of their education sacrificed on the altar of socialism.

We note, however, that despite this general observation no moves have been made to change the schools back

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS AND SUPPORTERS

The Hinckley PO Box, landline and Britannia Club Yorkshire Bank account no. 47264319 are no longer in use by the National Front and the disrupter Mick Shore who administered them has now left the Party. (Please amend your standing orders, records and any party literature accordingly).

Mick Shore is still trying to disrupt the National Front by sending out text messages, letters and e-mails to our members requesting then to join a rival Nationalist party that he has been suspected of working for a while now.

The National Front has now rapidly progressed in the 3 months without him, what a pity his subversive influence was not discarded earlier. Join the NF a "Real" British Nationalist Party
